Lesson Plan

Magic Tree House Fact Tracker: Pandas and Other Endangered Species

The ABC's of Magic Tree House Pandas and Other Endangered Species

An informational research book with an ABC structure
(Research Project)

The student goals for this project are threefold:

1. To interact with the book for research
2. To choose the important vocabulary (expert language) for the topic
3. To write the facts in their own words

MATERIALS NEEDED

- Magic Tree House Fact Tracker Pandas and Other Endangered Species
- Fact Tracking ABC Word Chart for each student (enclosed)
- ABC Booklet for each student (enclosed)

PROCEDURE:

- Read or show some ABC mentor texts from your classroom or school library, before and throughout the project, so the students can see the structure of this research project.

- As students read the Magic Tree House Fact Tracker Pandas and Other Endangered Species, they choose important vocabulary words for each letter of the alphabet, write the word on the ABC Tracking chart, and note the page number. Additional books from other authors or the companion to this Fact Tracker can be used as a second resource for the project.
- When students complete the ABC Tracking chart, they refer back to the word and page number and find it in the book. They write the fact (in their own words) and illustrate.
- HINT: The students sometimes have difficulty finding a word for a letter of the alphabet. You can help them in several ways.
  - a) Teach them to “wordplay”. For example, with the letter X, use it as the second letter of the word and make it an adjective, such as X is for eXtremely. It is eXtremely cold in Antarctica. Z is for z-z-z. Bears hibernate in the winter.
  - b) Add to their vocabulary and teach them a new word when they are stuck.
  - c) Teach them to use the index to find words.
- Suggestions

First graders can write the word and illustrate.

Second graders can write a one sentence fact and illustrate.

Third graders and above can write several sentences and illustrate.
- Please note that there are two separate Y – Z pages enclosed. One page ends the book with an ABOUT THE AUTHOR section and the other with a CONCLUDING STATEMENT section. You choose how you would like to end it, depending on the grade level and standard(s) you would like to cover.
- This book can be done independently, in a small group with each student researching several words and facts, or a class project where each student is in charge of one letter and the researched fact(s).
